

Farhana Khera [pronounced: FAR-hah-nah CARE-ah] is the president and executive director of Muslim Advocates, a national legal advocacy and educational organization dedicated to promoting freedom, justice and equality for all, regardless of faith. Prior to joining Muslim Advocates in 2005, Ms. Khera was counsel to the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee, Subcommittee on the Constitution. She worked for six years for Senator Russell D. Feingold (D-WI), the Chairman of the Constitution Subcommittee, where she advised the Senator on a range of civil rights and civil liberties.

Prior to the Senate, Ms. Khera was an associate with the law firm of Hogan & Hartson, LLP (now Hogan Lovells), and the law firm of Ross, Dixon & Masback, LLP, where her work as the lead associate on several pro bono employment discrimination cases resulted in the firm being honored with the Outstanding Achievement Award by the Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs.

Ms. Khera has been honored by the Auburn Theological Seminary with its Lives of Commitment Award, by the Minority Bar Coalition of San Francisco with its Unity Award, and by Women In Islam with its Dr. Betty Shabazz Recognition Award. She has also been recognized by Islamica Magazine as one of "10 Young Muslim Visionaries," for leadership, innovative approaches and "a level of success that bodes well for America."

Ms. Khera received her B.A. from Wellesley College and her J.D. from Cornell Law School. In 2009, she completed the Executive Program for Nonprofit Leaders at Stanford Graduate School of Business.
